AOA introduces electronic coding resource for members only

On March 1, 2008, AOA introduced a new member benefit, AOACodingToday.com. AOA has contracted to offer an exciting new coding product to members only. After researching a number of online coding products, AOA has selected AOACodingToday.com, a subscription online coding service that will help your practice keep up on the latest coding changes and avoid costly and potentially troublesome mistakes. AOACodingToday.com includes all CPT and ICD-9 codes, modifiers, associated global information, and related LCDs as well as Medicare information in one easy to navigate place. It also includes exclusive access to optometry specific information with real time updates, 24/7 access, and free technical support and phone training. Visit AOACodingToday.com for details.

Attached is a copy of the AOA News article that includes details about the product, and a letter from Dr. Mark Hennen, ECBC Chairman.
